FORT MCDOWELL , Ariz. – May 11, 2022 – Tomorrow, May 12, the Fort McDowell Yavapai Nation will hold its 30th annual Sovereignty Day Celebration, a milestone anniversary commemorating one of the most significant days in Fort McDowell's history.

Following a continental breakfast and posting of the colors, veterans will lead a four-mile commemorative march starting at 7:15 a.m. from the Fort McDowell Recreation Center to the We-Ko-Pa Casino Resort. This historically significant highlight of the morning-long event will emulate the 1992 protest march from Fort McDowell Casino to the Arizona State Capitol, with hay wagons available for Elders, young children and others unable to complete the four-mile trek. The walk will be followed by an informative program, luncheon and entertainment at the old Fort McDowell Bingo Hall.

Three decades ago, 25 to 50 federal agents and U.S. marshals raided the Fort McDowell Gaming Center. Before they could leave with the 349 slot machines they had confiscated, more than 100 Tribal members, community members, casino employees and casino guests blockaded the only road out. The subsequent three-week non-violent standoff culminated in the state signing compacts with Arizona tribes – paving the way for Indian Gaming throughout the state.

“At this time every year, we honor our parents, grandparents, friends and other tribal members who so bravely – and peacefully – deterred the efforts of government officials to attack our Tribal Sovereignty and self-determination,” said Bernadine Burnette, president of the Fort McDowell Yavapai Nation. “Their passion, commitment, and firm belief in preserving what rightfully belonged to us has sculpted not only our Tribal Council and members but the entire landscape of Arizona gaming. This is a very proud day for the Yavapai people.”

Since that fateful event in 1992, the Fort McDowell Yavapai Nation has continued to prosper, give back to the community, and celebrate their rich heritage. In October 2020, this resilient, progressive and inclusive spirit was demonstrated with the opening of the We-Ko-Pa Casino Resort, a contemporary, state-of-the-art dining and entertainment facility that has set a new bar for gaming in the Valley.
