1660s

WHERE IT ALL BEGAN

After the Great Fire of London in 1666, the English aristocracy fled the smouldered city of London to the open meadows to the west, where they built grand homes lined with rare folios of Shakespeare and Old Master paintings.

In the 1700s, King James II granted the rights for an annual fair to be held upon the grounds: the May Fair. For 15 days, the richest and the poorest flocked to enjoy the revelry, which entailed livestock auctions, stage plays, thronging crowds, and ample drinking. It was riotous. And it thrived.

Decades later, in this area inhabited by gentry and nobility, the fair was ceased, along with its reputation for the loose and lewd. Yet the name of the elegant district that grew from this raucous fair remained.

In the 1900s - when May Fair was still spelt as two words - American aristocracy moved in, as the Astors and Pierpoint Morgans joined the mighty Dudleys, Grosvenors and the Dukes of Devonshire.

And then began an era where the grandest old family mansions converted into London's newest and most prestigious hotels.

Enter The May Fair.

1920s

A ROYAL AWAKENING

In 1927, The May Fair Hotel announced itself to the world with a suitably royal fanfare, as King George V and Queen Mary gave their seal of approval. A gesture that merely hinted at the glamour to ensue.

From the moment the grand doors swung open, The May Fair was London society's playground. With Bert Ambrose and the hottest band in town, the young and affluent whirled around the grand ballroom alongside royalty, night after night. With a delectable restaurant and the finest rooms, it was the place for high society to meet.

When World War Two began, The May Fair was an oasis. The bandleaders of the time, Jack Jackson and Harry Roy, entertained the thousands of guests who flocked to the ballroom, eager to revel in escapism and merriment, and forget the outside world. Though the lower ballroom was used as it was deeper and safer, life at The May Fair continued almost as if there were no war.

HOLLYWOOD ON THAMES

This was the era of the Danziger brothers. In the late fifties and early sixties, W1 became London's 90210, as Hollywood film impresarios bought The May Fair and turned it into a magnet for the rich and the famous (and, sometimes, the infamous).

The Danziger brothers didn't rest on their laurels. Their film set designer revamped the hotel with a private cinema and a theatre, which sold out every night. And it wasn't just high-flying directors and star-studded names who graced the suites: musicians flocked too, often booking 50 rooms for their entourages. Pianos were placed in every suite – and for one notable guest, a dance floor.

In 1960, the Beachcomber bar opened and London had seen nothing like it. Scenery designers built a pool with waterfalls, home to real caiman crocodiles. The atmosphere changed from sunshine to thunder and lightning, and when that cleared, rainbows. It was a piece of theatre in itself, and guests luxuriated in their own Pacific island, just off Piccadilly.

The last rum drink was poured and the resident parrot's last squawk was heard in 1985, when the Beachcomber was transformed into The Crystal Room, which proudly remains.

Staying true to decades past, the unmistakable character the Danziger brothers stamped on The May Fair stands strong today.

2000s ONWARDS

STILL MAKING HISTORY

In 2004, a new era for The May Fair began. Having been bought by the prestigious Edwardian Group London, every single room in the hotel was transformed. New wings and floors were added, amid a stylish, modern effusion of glass and leather, marble and gold leaf. Just 30 months and £75 million later, The May Fair could once again announce itself to the world: 'a hotel like no other'.

Still to this day, eminent spaces remain. The Crystal Room's spectacular Baccarat chandelier glimmers in past and present glory, and the private theatre's acoustics are still felt to the core. A lavish bar continues to serve the classic and avant-garde, and a fine-dining restaurant still creates the delectable. Above all, 404 luxurious rooms and 12 of the capital's most spectacular suites provide unforgettable experiences, and the later additions of the Cigar Room and the urban spa retreat ensure that The May Fair still competes in a league of its own.

And so it's no wonder The May Fair is the official hotel to the British Film Institute and London Fashion Week, with its grand settings playing host to lavish product launches and fashion previews, auditions, dress rehearsals and film premieres.

Famed for hosting outrageous parties overflowing with champagne-infused debauchery in eras past, today The May Fair is celebrated for its elegance and charm. Yet nowhere is, or has ever been, more renowned for its discretion.

Bound by secrets that will never escape, The May Fair is a fortress of tales. But it's not just discretion and luxury service that keeps guests returning. High security, private entrances and CCTV all ensure that everyone can stay and not be seen – unless of course, that's exactly what they wish.

THE PENTHOUSE SUITE

COOL OPULENCE

Welcome to one of London's most exclusive residences. The Penthouse Suite's 100-foot sweeping terrace and panoramic city views are as remarkable as its elegant features, from the marble bath to the cowhide chaise longue to the master bedroom. Situated on the 9th floor of the May Fair, it boasts a private lift and lobby, as well as kitchenette for those home comforts. Away from the bustle of the city, The Penthouse Suite provides space and luxury on its grandest scale, ideal for long stays or simply a weekend of indulgence.

A close-up photograph of a brown leather suitcase. The leather has a cracked, textured appearance. On the left, a portion of a metal handle is visible, featuring intricate, classical-style carvings. A zipper with a metal pull is located at the bottom center. The pull is highly decorative, with a central fan-like motif and two fish-like figures on either side. The zipper teeth are visible along the bottom edge. The background is a blurred, light-colored surface.

THE AZURE SUITE

CLASSIC ELEGANCE

The Azure Suite is both elegant and extraordinary. Fine art details surprise. Fendi furniture adds grace. And a secret walk-in wardrobe delights (but first, you must find it!). This 2 bed suite includes a family room and connecting room along with a kitchenette, meaning that even the largest families and groups of up to 8 can stay in comfort and ultimate style.

THE AMARILLO
SUITE

PLAYFUL CHIC

Drenched in light, The Amarillo Suite enraptures all who enter. Yellow pony skin and mirror-like stone add allure to this stunning setting. Delicate dining room furnishings bring an air of elegance, and provide the perfect setting for an intimate dinner in opulent surroundings without leaving the comfort of your suite. Certainly, the Amarillo is one of the capital's most elegant suites.

THE EBONY SUITE

DARK DELIGHT

Enter The Ebony Suite and you enter a sanctuary of Japanese style concealed in the heart of Mayfair. Inside, futuristic TOTO technology is complimented with a chic, modern interior, and stone elephants that accentuate positive feng shui. Perfect for two, there is an optional second bedroom with private lobby which makes the suite feel more like an apartment than a bedroom. In the evening, the private terrace makes a picture-perfect setting for romantic al-fresco dining.

THE SCHIAPARELLI SUITE

SURREALIST SYBARITIC

Inspired by the 20th Century style icon Elsa Schiaparelli and the era of surrealism which she epitomised, to enter this suite is to enter a world as wild and whimsical as one of her creations. Accoutred in butter-soft leather and pony skin, this one-bedroom suite with generous living and dining space is ideal for romantic getaways and the most special occasions.

THE AMBER SUITE

GLOWING COMFORT

Empowering and sophisticated, The Amber Suite is superbly versatile. Radiant fabrics and a sweeping blonde wooden floor theme a magnificent space, which can enhance any stay in London with style and grandeur. The generous master bedroom pairs with optional connecting king and family rooms, allowing it to sleep up to 8 people. A kitchenette complements the airy chic dining space, making it ideal for elegant dinners and time to unwind. Glow with comfort as you experience the Amber Suite.

THE OPIUM SUITE

LUXE DRAMA

Powerful and striking, The Opium Suite continues a proud May Fair tradition of collecting authentic oriental works of art. Step into one of the city's most intoxicating spaces, where by night flickering candlelight conjures silhouettes and conceals secrets - while an impressive space forms the perfect frame for dramatic and secluded encounters.

THE SAFFRON SUITE

WARM NOSTALGIA

As the name suggests, The Saffron Suite adds mellow warmth to every occasion. Its simple sophistication has a delicate 1970's nostalgic touch, and becomes the perfect setting to recline after experiencing all that London has to offer. In the evening, the kitchenette and seating for eight invite special evenings for families with children, or cosy get-togethers for larger groups.

THE DUPLEX SUITES

ELATED ALLURE

Ermine, Pewter and Bamboo are our three innovative and individual Duplex Suites. Each is an ingenious interpretation of split-level design, and so can be ideal for families with older children who want to stay together but have their own space. For the more overt gathering, all three can be interconnected to create one impressive space.

THE JUNIOR SUITES

MODISH CHARM

Luxurious, welcoming and elegant, The Junior Suites are havens in London's luxury quarter. The oversized marble bathrooms, lavish fabrics and king-sized beds belie the name, while the Bang & Olufsen entertainment system and plush lounge area form the perfect surrounds for opulent relaxation.

THE STUDIO SUITES

PLUSH LUXURY

Compact yet deceptively spacious, our open-plan Studio Suites are among the most sought-after hotel rooms in London. With oversized Sicilian marble bathrooms and a lavish seating area, think of them for the perfect discreet hideaway.

THE PRIVATE WINGS

GRACEFUL GRANDEUR

On the north-west side of The May Fair sit The Private Wings. On each of the seven floors, a single secure entrance conceals a suite and three deluxe bedrooms. Whether in town for a number of weeks, or just for a one-night celebration, a private wing offers an unforgettable experience. Taken together, The Private Wings offer the ultimate private space for larger groups.

MAY FAIR KITCHEN

Take your palate on a gastronomic journey to the Mediterranean, with exquisitely authentic small-plate dishes, celebrating the very best in Spanish and Italian cuisine. All prepared with passion, and served with panache.

MAY FAIR TERRACE

An exclusive enclave that recreates the outdoors inside and proudly stocks the finest hand-rolled cigars, including Cohiba, Montecristo, Partagas, Trinidad, Bolivar, Hoyo de Monterey, and Santa Damiana. And no cigar is left unmatched by a handpicked Armagnac, Cognac or Whiskey from around the world.

MAY FAIR THEATRE

Playing host to film premieres, plays and private conferences, The May Fair Theatre is one of the capital's largest private screening rooms. With 201 Italian-trimmed leather seats and the latest technology, every seat is the best in the house.

MAY FAIR BAR

Inspired by splendour. Curated by beauty.
An evocative menu serves authentic dishes re-imagined with a modern flavour, while experienced mixologists conjure dramatic cocktails before your very eyes to fascinate and delight. All this, enveloped in ambient sounds and sybaritic décor to deliver an enthralling immersive experience. Expect pure drama in the heart of London's luxury quarter.

MAY FAIR SPA

Cool blue tones melt into sleek charcoal and grey to create an ambience of elegance and mystery. Mirrored walls create a new sense of space and light. The electric blue-lit bar curves through the stylish crowd, carving contours which nestle the finest curation of spirits, malts, wines and champagnes.
